Winton

Lark Quarry, 110 km south of Winton in central Queensland, it is the world's only known record of a dinosaur stampede. Numerous fossil dinosaur footprints or tracks are preserved there. This makes it a most important scientific discovery. The tracks show that there was then a stampede by the herds of smaller dinosaurs. These herds comprised of about 150 dinosaurs (Ornithomimid and Coelurosaur). Winton today is the centre of a huge cattle and sheep raising district; it's a typical rural outback town with the flair of a great past. Winton's main claim to fame is that "Waltzing Matilda", the famous Australian bush ballad, was first performed at the North Gregory Hotel in 1895. Walk along the streets and feel the spirit of the bush and visit the fabulous Waltzing Matilda Centre.
